Welcome Message from the Minister of Health of Ethiopia

Dear Distinguished Delegates, Esteemed Guests, Development Partners, Industry Leaders, and Colleagues,
It is my great pleasure to welcome you to Ethiopia for the 13th East African Healthcare Federation (EAHF) Conference & International Health Exhibition 2026, convened under the theme:

“Resilience: Building East Africa’s Health Economy.”

On behalf of the Ministry of Health, I extend our warmest greetings to all participants joining us from across East Africa, the African continent, and beyond.

We gather at a defining moment for our region. The lessons of recent years have reaffirmed that health is not merely a social sector investment; it is a strategic pillar of economic growth, national security, and sustainable development. Resilient health systems are essential to protecting our populations, strengthening our economies, and securing our collective future.

For East Africa, building resilient health economies requires stronger health financing, renewed investment in primary healthcare, accelerated digital transformation, support for local manufacturing and innovation, and stronger partnerships that respond to the needs and aspirations of our people.

The Government of Ethiopia remains firmly committed to advancing Universal Health Coverage through a people-centered and country-driven approach. We are strengthening primary healthcare, expanding access to quality services, accelerating digital health, promoting sustainable financing, fostering local production and innovation, and deepening collaboration with the private sector as a strategic partner in expanding access, driving innovation, and mobilizing investment.

EAHF 2026 provides a unique platform to catalyze investment, share experiences, forge partnerships, and identify practical solutions that will strengthen our health systems and unlock the tremendous potential of East Africa’s health economy.

I am confident that the discussions and collaborations fostered during this conference will contribute meaningfully to building resilient, inclusive, and sustainable health systems across our region.

I extend my sincere appreciation to the East African Healthcare Federation, the Ethiopian Healthcare Federation, our partners, sponsors, exhibitors, speakers, and delegates for their commitment to advancing healthcare excellence across Africa.

I wish you a productive and inspiring conference and a memorable stay in Addis Ababa.

Welcome to Ethiopia, and welcome to EAHF 2026.

Welcome Message from the President of the Ethiopian & East Africa Healthcare Federation

Dear Distinguished Delegates, Partners, Exhibitors, Sponsors, and Friends,

It is my great honor and privilege to welcome you to the 13th East African Healthcare Federation (EAHF) Conference & International Health Exhibition 2026, hosted in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, under the theme:

“Resilience: Building East Africa’s Health Economy.”

This year’s conference comes at a pivotal moment for our region. Across East Africa, healthcare systems are undergoing significant transformation, driven by innovation, investment, technology, and an increasing recognition of the critical role that healthcare plays in economic growth and social development in the face of evolving funding landscape. As we navigate emerging challenges and opportunities, resilience has become the cornerstone of sustainable health systems and thriving health economies.

The East African Healthcare Federation has long served as a platform for collaboration among healthcare stakeholders across the region. Through this conference and exhibition, we bring together policymakers, healthcare providers, investors, manufacturers, development partners, professional associations, and innovators to exchange knowledge, forge partnerships, and shape the future of healthcare in East Africa.

As Chair of the Federation, Ethiopia is proud to host this important gathering. Beyond the conference halls, Addis Ababa offers a unique setting as Africa’s diplomatic capital and a growing hub for healthcare investment, innovation, and regional cooperation.

Over the next two days, I encourage you to engage actively in discussions, explore new technologies and solutions, build strategic partnerships, and contribute your expertise to advancing our shared vision of accessible, high-quality, and sustainable healthcare for all. On behalf of the East African Healthcare Federation and the Ethiopian Healthcare Federation, I extend my sincere gratitude to our partners, sponsors, exhibitors, speakers, and delegates for your commitment to strengthening healthcare across our region.

Together, let us build stronger institutions, foster innovation, unlock investment, and create resilient health economies that will serve future generations. I wish you a productive conference, meaningful connections, and an inspiring experience in Ethiopia.

Across Africa, healthcare is increasingly recognized not only as a social imperative but also as a key driver of economic growth, innovation, employment, and sustainable development. THE INVESTMENT CASE

Why East Africa. Why Healthcare. Why Now.

Two forces are converging in East Africa — a vast, youthful, fast-growing market, and an urgent continental mandate to build health sovereignty. Together they create one of the most compelling investment opportunities of the decade.

Why East Africa

Sixteen federations. One of the youngest, fastest-growing markets on earth.

The EAHF member federations together represent more than 585 million people — a market larger than the European Union and expanding faster than almost any other region on the continent. With a median age under 20 and nearly two-thirds of the population below 30, the region holds one of the world's largest emerging consumer and workforce bases. Several member economies have sustained 5-7% annual growth, fuelling rapid urbanisation, a widening middle class, and surging demand for quality care. Health spending, private-hospital investment, and insurance coverage are all rising, while digital health leapfrogs legacy infrastructure. Today, patients spend hundreds of millions of dollars each year seeking advanced treatment abroad — in India, the Gulf, and South Africa — value the region can recapture by building cross-border centres of excellence in cardiac, oncology, and specialist care.

AFCFTA SINGLE MARKET

Why Healthcare

Health sovereignty is national sovereignty.

A nation that cannot make its own medicines cannot fully secure its people. Africa still imports about 99% of its vaccines and 70-90% of its medicines and medical devices — a dependency the pandemic and recent contractions in donor funding exposed as a strategic risk. Health is a core function of the state and the foundation of the social contract: productive economies are built on healthy populations. Local production of medicines, vaccines, and devices turns that vulnerability into security — and into industry; the African Union targets 60% local vaccine manufacturing by 2040, anchoring a health-products market already worth over US$50 billion a year. Health is no longer a cost centre but an engine of jobs, value addition, and growth. Realising it calls for new capital — blended finance, public-private partnerships, and DFI-backed instruments — and for the innovation, harmonised regulation, and regional integration that turn fragmented national markets into one competitive value chain under AfCFTA.

THE CONVERGENCE

A young, growing market meets an urgent mandate for health sovereignty — and a once-in-a-generation window to invest. EAHF 2026 is where that capital, policy, and partnership meet.
